CHARLES WESLEY SWISHER.

CHARLES WESLEY SWISHER, to whom the present volume of the Monticola is dedicated, was born in Marion county, in 1867. Mr. Swisher's early education was limited to the meager advantages offered in the public schools of that time. At hard work on a farm and in the coal mines, where he rose rapidly from the position of mule driver to mine superintendent, he acquired that training which equiped him for the wide sphere of action which he was to occupy.

About 1890, he located in the city of Fairmont and engaged in the real estate business, giving particular attention to the handling of coal and oil lands. By his high natural ability, genial disposition and well-known integrity, he soon won the confidence and esteem of the public. His success was assured from the start. Becoming interested in politics; he was elected to the House of Delegate from Marion county in 1902 and during the next session represented Marion, Monongalia and Taylor in the Senate.

Though not himself a college man, he has always had the state's educational interests at heart. The University has always had his ardent support; both of a private citizen and as a legislator, he has fought her battles and brought home the spoils, in shape of substantial appropriations. Mr. Swisher is a well-known figure in West Virginia politics. Very many friends he has among the students, who wish him complete success in his every undertaking.

STUART HAMPTON BOWMAN, Phi Kappa Psi, is a native of Barbour county. As a graduate of the University of Nashville, where he was very prominent in several phases of college activity he came to West Virginia in the fall of '97 and took his second Bachelor's degree at the succeeding Commencement. Mr. Bowman was one of Barbour's representatives in the 1899 and 1901 sessions of the Legislature. During his law-making career, he did valiant service for the cause of education in the way of securing generous appropriations for the University and the Normal schools. He was admitted to the bar in 1900 and has since been engaged in the practice of his profession at Philippi. Mr. Bowman is widely and favorably known and his political star seems to be in the ascendancy.

FRANK PICKERING CORBIN, Delta Tau Delta, was born in Ritchie county, June 18th, 1876. He entered the University in 1897 and graduated A.B.L. 1901. During his college career he won the Regents' prize for essay and the Wiles' prize for oratory. Upon graduating he became secretary to Hon. George C. Sturgiss and has since engaged with Mr. Sturgiss in the practice of law. Mr. Corbin has been closely identified with the introduction of many new industries in and about Morgantown. He is general manager of The Decker's Creek Stone and Sand Company; president of the Oregon Oil Company; a large stock holder in the West Virginia Heat and Light Company, and is now Treasurer of the Morgantown Board of Trade. Mr. Corbin still takes an active interest in the affairs of the University, being a genuine lover and a liberal supporter of college athletics. We predict for this energetic young alumnus, unlimited but merited success.

One of the best known among the recent graduates of the University is Ray V. Hennen, now secretary to Dr. I. C. White, State Geologist. Mr. Hennen was in college from September, 1896 to June 1901, receiving his A.B. in 1900 and his B.S.C.E. at the close of the next session. He engaged for some time after his graduation in active engineering work. With the B. & O. R.R. Co., and the Carter Oil Co., he showed such ability and energy, that on December 1st, 1902, he was appointed Chief Clerk to the West Virginia Geological Survey. Under his direction the new geological map of the state was completed in 1903. Since that time, he has been in his present position. Mr. Hennen is capable, resourceful and businesslike. There is always success for such men as he.

ALTHA WARMAN, Kappa Alpha, is an alumnus of West Virginia University, having received two degrees, A.B. and L.L.B., in course. For some years after his graduation, he was engaged in the profession of teaching. Connected with the faculty of the Montgomery Preparatory School, his interest in his Alma Mater was of that particular quality which does things, rather than that which stands afar off and criticizes every move of the administration. Mr. Warman was delegate from Monongalia county to the last legislature and no member of either house was a warmer friend to all measures favoring the University. He is a member of the law firm of Snee, Warman & Gorman, engaged in the practice of law in Morgantown. In such men as Altha Warman we have alumni of whom to be proud and upon whom to depend for support in every case of need.

SENIOR HISTORY

Friends, students, Virginians, lend me your ears,
I come to tell our story, not to praise us.
Faults and failures of a class live after it.
The good often dies with its departure.
Let this be not so with us. Many lower men
Will tell you we have been ambitious;
And though ambition be a grievous fault,
Yet do we glory in the fruit of it.
Here, while underclass men gaze in wonder—
For underclass men e'er must wonder at
Vast knowledge which the learned senior shows,
Come I to tell you of the class of '04.
Four years have we been friends, faithful and just.
We've brought honors to our alma mater
And added to the glory of her name.
Four years ago, when Freshmen we were called,
Presented we the kingly crown to Ballard.
And Ballard was an ambitious man,
So that under his good rule we grew strong.
'Twas in our Sophomore year, while he yet reigned,
The foolish men of "five" dared us to fight.
O judgment, thou wert indeed fled from Freshmen hosts.
And men of "five" had lost their reason. They knew not.
Their hearts are in the coffin with their hopes
Since that eve when we smote them hip and thigh.
At present time the word of Senior might
Stand against underclass men; but soon we go.
And none remain to do us reverence.
O readers, were I disposed to tell you
Of the honors and praise which have been ours,
I should do Juniors wrong and Soph'mores wrong,
Who you all know are hard-working men;
I will not do them wrong; I rather choose
To wrong our class, to wrong myself and you,
Than I will wrong these hard-working men.
But here's a list with the committee's seal;
I found it in Jack's big book, 'tis his list.

Let but the students read this honor roll
 Which, pardon me, I do not mean to give
 And they would know the class of '04 is rich
 In honors. Here are learners in English,
 Authors; poets, orators, debaters,
 Delvers in science, athletes, editors,
 Both Athenaeum and Monongalian,
 Y. M. C. A. workers; Disciples of Blackstone. Many who in the days to come
 Will bring glory to their Alma Mater,
 As a rich legacy.
 If you have tears, prepare to shed them now.
 You all have seen our class roll; I remember
 The first time ever it was written out,
 'Twas on a winter's evening in "Prep Hall,"
 A year before we overcame the men of "five."
 Look, in this place ran Jack's blue pencil through.
 See what a rent the envious "Pat" has made;
 Through this the well-belov'd committee stabb'd,
 And as they pluck'd the wished-for grades away,
 Mark how the men of this class follow'd out,
 As rushing from the school, no more to know
 The unkindness that had met them before.
 The committee, you know, was e'er an angel;
 Judge, O you preps, how dearly we have loved it!
 This was the most unkindest cut of all;
 That when at length they saw we'd done our work,
 Ingratitude, more strong than e'er before
 Was shown by them. And 'twas decreed at length
 Against the customs of former days
 That we should take the spring exams! Pride fell.
 O what a fall was there, my student friends!
 Then Seniors, one and all, bowed down, while Preps
 Along with other lower men at us did laugh.
 O now you weep; and I perceive, you feel
 The dint of pity: these are gracious drops.
 But I have neither wit, nor words, nor worth,
 Action, nor utterance, nor the power of speech,
 To tell our tale; I only speak right on;
 So now I cease. In ceasing would I say,
 Here is a great class! When comes such another?

CLASS HISTORY.

What, ho! ye of the out world! Give ear to our utterance! Wonderful it is to tell how the mighty gods, with large bounty dispense understanding, unto mankind, dispense position and power unto those who obey them.

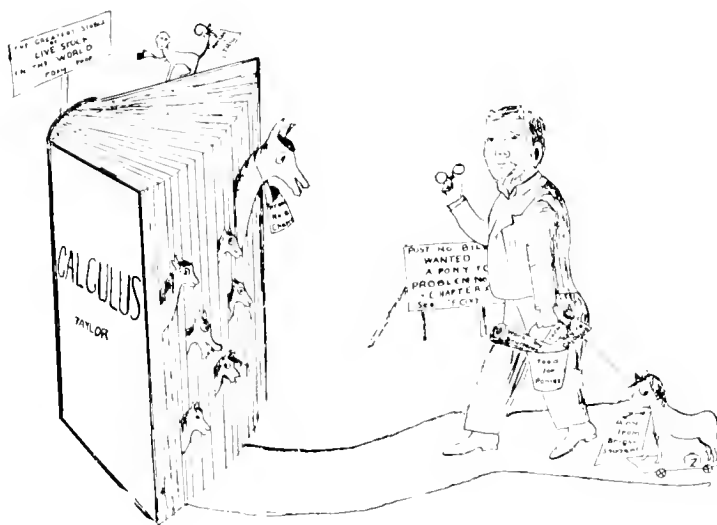

Thus it happened that in the springtide of the year 1902, in the month of the warlike god, even in the month of Mars, that understanding was given to a mighty people. The light burst in upon the folk; they had emerged from the mountainous region, Prepdom, and they were henceforth known among men as the Freshmen of '05.

Then was it widely proclaimed throughout all the land, that there should be a gathering of the people at an early hour in the evening, in a great hall, called Woodburn. This plan was in good time accomplished, with a quickness surprising to men, and there was heard in the great hall the voices of many wise braves, speaking in council, for there was sore need of a leader strong and mighty. Thus it happened that they chose Everett of the tribe of Casto, a man long famous among the people. There was given to him a martial spirit, warlike ambition, so that the people rejoiced and followed him into battle, worthy war-deeds performing; for in the night shadow, when the turbulent tribe of the Naught-fours knew not of their purpose, they mounted the high-gabled hall and cast to the widesweeping west wind a mighty banner, flaunting the far-famed numerals '05, symbols of valor. Great was the grief of the Naught-fours. Quick gathered together their warriors, men of battle, of mighty prowess. But our valorous folks were exalted, heeded not the wrath of the Naught-fours and plunged into fight. To the stout hearted Freshmen, was victory given, and the fear-filling symbols, gleamed in glory from the towers. Then peace reigned throughout all the region of the Campus, and the Naught-fives waxed great under the leader, wondrous in wisdom, bounteous in knowledge, until the space of about a year passed away.

When the earth was again green and with leaves adorned, a council of the people assembled together; for the rule of Casto was ended, and now must a new ruler be chosen. Again was there much speaking, and the sound thereof was as of a rushing mighty wind. But in due time was chosen Thomas, illustrious and honored, of the tribe of Haymond, in strength-trying contests, a hero far-famed. In such wise he ruled that joy grew in the hearts of the people. Happy the hosts of the Naught-fives, in game and in glee without stinting. Yet wise men were there among them in full plenty. The fame of the folk spread far through all the nations. Few flunked from their classes, but oft bluffed they through lessons soul-trying and worldly honor and wisdom was given to many. Then the reign of Haymond was ended. Again a new ruler was chosen, and the folk were erstwhile called Sophomores were, henceforth known as Juniors. Frederick, of Flenniken is chief, and under his wise rule, have the Naught-fives increased in strength and in wisdom. To them renown has been given, and peace-crowned days. Many high places are filled by the '05's. Mighty men of valor are within their ranks. A youth most excellent leads the host of the prayerful and a damsel renowned, is exalted to power. Our singers make glad the hearts of the people, with sweet-sounding voices. And scribes with knowledge unbounded, do write of the deeds of the nation. In strange tongues do they hold converse in parleys assembled. In truth, in all places of fame and honor are Juniors abiding. Increasing in power, in worth and in learning, upholding the honor of their beloved Alma Mater.

Praise be unto the worthy folk of Naughty-five and may their tribe increase !

CLASS HISTORY.

As a rule, the Freshmen never attract more than passing interest, no matter what they do; therefore, when on the tenth day of February, 1903, all those who boasted of thirty-nine credits assembled and organized the class of 1906, the every day affairs of the university were not disturbed. Paul Martin was elected President and amid increasing enthusiasm, the other officers were chosen. Upon this day it was that class spirit, which had been conspicuous by its absence for so long from our University, was aroused from its lethargic slumber, and for two hours, classic old Woodburn rocked and swayed with the yells and clapping of hands of these young, confident Freshmen.

When these same fellows, full-fledged Sophomores, were about to go into secret session and re-organize their class, January 21, 1904, word was given out that the verdant Freshmen were electing their class officers in an adjoining room. This was the signal for the Sophomores to instill into these youthful college men a wholesome respect for their immediate seniors. At first the Sophs barricaded the doors and windows of the room occupied by the Freshies, in order to insure them against any and all interruption while the organization of the Class of '07 was being perfected. Luckily for the latter, they secured their freedom through a defectively barricaded window and presented themselves en masse to their guardian Sophomores. The greatest class fight in the history of the University resulted.

The fight lasted for more than two hours, during which time the ranks of the Freshmen were very badly "decimated." But it was a battle royal for the possession of Woodburn and all through those two hours the old Hall creaked and shrieked under the awful strain. The Freshies formed a solid line along the hall and across the doorway of the room in which the Sophs were to re-organize their class, and attempted to compel them to seek another place of meeting. But the Sophs with a yell and a rush broke through the Freshmen line and began to drive them away from the building onto the campus. As their old mastery was again asserting itself and success was crowning them, time was called and the Sophs went into executive session, leaving the Freshies tired and worn to wind their way to their rooms. The Sophomores soon succeeded in re-organizing the Class of '06 with the same enthusiasm that has always characterized them, and elected officers as given heretofore.

During that night while Sophomores slept, the insolent Freshmen painted their numerals with a lavish hand upon many of the hitherto inoffensive stones, trees, etc. near and upon the campus. But within another twenty-four hours this action upon their part was proved to have been in vain; for their numerals '07 faded as quickly as they came and in their places miraculously arose '08 or '09 to mock the infantile performance of the Freshmen. And that second morning the smiling sun kissed the numerals '06 which rested so gracefully upon the face of the University clock. The Freshies had been administered another defeat and this time they sank into dutiful silence and repose.

An unpardonable error, thought the Sophomores, to permit the picture of the entire Freshman Class to appear in the Monticola of 1905; so the evening before the latter were scheduled for a "sitting," the president along with other officers of the class were bagged for safe keeping. But the youthful '07's appealed to the robust, blue-coated guardians of the city for assistance, thus securing the release of their honored officers. However in the "wee sma' hours" of the morning, two stout Sophomores went out into the cold gray dawn with a prize between them. The Freshmen had lost their Historian, Where? He had sunk into oblivion or had left "upon a sightless courier of the air" for all they knew. And that day the Freshman picture was taken, known for its incompleteness; the eager face of the Historian is not there.

The foregoing is a history of the Class of 1906 to date, that class which has worked so effectively for the promotion of class spirit in our University, that class where members have stood so high in scholarship and athletics, that class which has set a fitting example for the prosperity of W. V. U.

CLASS HISTORY.

In a previous Monticola it was said the ordinary Freshman Class has no history. But those good old days of peace have long since passed at West Virginia; a lack of history is certainly the last thing that can be rightfully imputed to "naught-seven."

In the early part of the winter term two notices were found on the college bulletin boards calling meetings of the Sophomore and Freshman classes, these to be held on the same night and in the same building. That night, a slight reddish tinge was discovered on the moon and wise men predicted war. At the time appointed an enthusiastic crowd of Freshman met and quickly proceeded to elect officers:—President, Bayliss, Vice-President, Miss Burns; Secretary, Hart; Treasurer, Foulk; Historian, Dayton; and Yell-Master, Drane. We of the class which had struggled manfully through Prepdom now began to realize we were at last college-men—and we were to come to a fuller realization before the evening was over. At this, our first certain ominous noises which had been proceeding from without. The few meeting, we did nothing but elect officers, quickly adjourning to investigate bold Sophomores there were convinced of our presence and found by contact that Woodburn Hall steps are steep, thus making it very unpleasant to be thrown down them into outer darkness. We next took possession of the Sophomore's meeting-room and liked it so well that we remained there for a long time in spite of all Sophomore objections. As a result of our pleasant evening, the next day saw a surprising increase in the second-hand clothing trade in Morgantown and some of the tattered garments sold looked strangely like the erstwhile possessions of naught-six's proud sons.

Another source of gratification to naught-seven was the increasing popularity of her officers with naught-six. This brotherly affection reached its culmination on the night before the Freshman class picture was to be taken. Pressing invitations from the Sophomores were given to the Freshman officers to visit them and Secretary Hart was even installed for the night in a most beautiful suburban home in South Park. The Sophomores were so pleased with him that they did not want him to leave them night or day and sent word he would not be home for a short time. Naught-seven resented this too great intimacy of the Sophomores with her secretary and Hart's place of abode having been discovered the Sophomores were persuaded by forcible Freshman argument to release him. Then he was escorted back to town by triumphant naught-seven. He stayed at home that night in spite of all Sophomore efforts to the contrary.

On the next day when the Freshman class picture was to be taken, a wild rumor became current that a great aunt of the Freshman historian had died at Point Marion and that his presence was required, that day, at the funeral. To prove that funerals and such other unimportant matters do not interfere with a Freshman class picture, the reader is referred to the naught-seven cut. In athletics naught-seven promises to be one of the best classes ever at the University. On all Varsity teams is she represented. At basketball under the leadership of "Steve" Jackson she overcame her enemies of naught-six by the rather satisfactory score of twenty-two to thirteen. Thus, although we are young we have been active and we are confident that however staid and sober we become as juniors and seniors we can only look back with pride and triumph of our first eventful year as the Freshman of good old naught-seven.

Here endeth the first lesson.

CLASS HISTORY.

If the Court please,—Before taking our leave of the Law School and assuming the strenuous duties of professional life, we, the Senior Law Class, feel impelled to leave behind us for the benefit of the untutored Juniors, a record of our achievements.

We realize the magnitude of the task.

The savage, untamed, and artless nature of the Junior is before us. We feel the weight of "the white man's burden."

We almost feel apologetic in acknowledging the Junior Class as our wards; but since they are to be our successors, it would be cruel to leave them unschooled to the ways of a senior's life. Ours is a duty of love.

Ancestry and environment have conspired to make us great,—why should we attempt to thwart destiny?

Our greatness is not uncertain or evanescent, not of the type that startles and dazzles the world; but as determinate and certain as Prof. Willey's conventional grade of seventy. Let us look behind the rainbow glamour of our fame and behold the mighty forces that made us what we are.

Of our origin we shall say but little. The data at hand is too meager and traditional to constitute history proper. Moreover we feel a certain delicacy in speaking of this subject.

Our history proper may be classified under two heads,—the epoch of War, and the epoch of Peace. In the first epoch we attempted the policy of the benevolent assimilation of the Specials. The task proved as stupendous as the twelve labors of Hercules. We were not eminently successful in work of Specialization. Wisdom prompted the segregation of the Specials, since their ways were not our ways.

Then we beat our swords into plough-shares, and the council of Peace held a seance. This marks the second epoch of our career. The Peace council burnt much Duke's mixture as incense unto the gods, and arrived at "a happy solution of the difficult."

Since then we have lived to glorify the University and pass our examinations.

Our class is cosmopolitan. Our genius is as varied as our numbers. We cannot forbear to mention certain forms of individual greatness, to wit, — the athletic spirit of Waugh and Groninger, the humor of Lentz, the belligerent tendencies of Pesquera and Nazario, the personal beauty of Jones, the religious side of Shannon.

Our associations have been most pleasant. The faculty love us so dearly that they may decide to keep us here another year. Dean Wrightson has favorably noticed our musical talent, Prof. Deahl has invited us to join his class in Sunday School Methods, Dean Atkeson thinks we are born farmers. Herod has offered a course in Prep. English for our benefit. It pains us sorely to break these tender ties, but the commercial spirit is strong within us; we have an itching palm. May our successors be our peers.

The football season of 1903 was in many respects the greatest in the history of the University. "The team that defeated W. and J." will be the standard of comparison for years to come. A thrill of enthusiasm heretofore unknown ran through the entire institution, professors, students, everybody, when last fall, we awoke to the realization of the fact that the team was fully equal to any college aggregation of the Middle West, Ohio State possibly excepted. College spirit proved to be a very lively corpse. All through the season there was an abundance of genuine loyalty to the school and to the men who were fighting her battles on the gridiron.

As the record will show, seven out of the eight games played were victories for the Gold and Blue. The loss to Ohio State was not nearly so disastrous a defeat as the score seems to indicate.

The Marietta game was spectacular throughout. West Virginia was compelled to play an uphill game in each half, at Marietta, by the brilliant work of her back field, scored in both almost as soon as the whistle blew. Here Core was tried at fullback for the first time. This experiment was most fortunate. His bucking not only won for West Virginia, but demonstrated that we have as good a man for that position as there is in the business.

The greatest athletic event in West Virginia's history was the defeat of our strongest and bitterest opponents, the W. and J. eleven, on the twenty-sixth of November. The victory was a double one. "Bull" Smith was the first man to cross a W. and J. goal-line during the season and we, for the first time, won from the Pennsylvanians in football. The thruse which followed will always be remembered in Morgantown.

The prospects for a winning team next season are very promising. With efficient management and unlimited support, we should have no difficulty in making good. The schedule is all that could be desired. The material is here. No detail will be neglected nor pains spared to continue the good work of last season.

When the baseball season of 1903 opened, there was a great deal of apprehension among the fans as to the prospects for a winning team. The pace set by the team of the previous season was a hard one to equal. With the majority of that nine graduated and out of school and the general belief that their successors would not prove to be their equals, enthusiasm did not run high, either among the students or the town fans. A few days of good weather and hard, preliminary practice brightened the situation. Finally it began to be realized that in Gromminger and Cole, as well as in several other new men, West Virginia had baseball material not to be disregarded. Before the season was far advanced, the doubts of success were all removed, while not, in some ways, coming up to the standard set by the very exceptional record of the previous year, the work of the team was a credit to the University and a delight to the students. The games played at home were marked for clean, fast baseball: all victories but two. On the road, while the results were in general not so encouraging, yet considering the strength of the opponents, the games were well played. The national game is heartily supported both by town and gown. With such a promising lot of youngsters to depend upon, we are safe in predicting that from now on, West Virginia will occupy a high place in college baseball.

That inter-collegiate basketball is a fixture among us is now generally regarded as settled. Until the season just passed, this game, while played a great deal as an inter-class sport, was never taken up on a more extensive basis. The hesitancy of the Association in taking up the game is evidenced by the fact that this year's management was compelled to assume the entire financial responsibility connected with the undertaking, in order to make the scheme go.

But viewed from all sides, the season was such a success, that we feel sure that similar conditions will not be again presented. Out of six inter-collegiate games, four were victories for West Virginia. Some genuine surprises were experienced by even the most ardent supporters of the team, before the season closed. Strong and widely known teams were defeated in the most approved style. An interest hitherto unknown was aroused in the greatest of the indoor games. Not the least among the surprises, was the fact that the season was financially successful. Hereafter, we hope to find basketball receiving its deserved share of attention at the hands of the students.

And he turned the leaves of Blackston.

THE EQUESTRIANS.

An organization whose purpose it is to protect the weak and outwit the foxy.

Motto.

We ride, let others walk.

Owing to the great secrecy observed by the members of the clan we are unable to reproduce all its rules.

Constitution.

ART. I. Members shall be of three classes, viz: Novitiates, knights-in-ordinary, knights of the fiery charger.

ART. II. All Preps shall be considered novitiates and shall practice the equestrian art under the supervision of the Master of Horse.

ART. III. Novitiates by riding boldly and fearlessly and escaping the vigilance of that arch enemy Ajax, whose surname is Caesar shall thereby win the spurs of knights-in-ordinary.

ART. IV. Few indeed, there be who can hope to become knights of the fiery charger. This great honor is conferred only upon those knights-in-ordinary who have been most fearless in the face of danger and who have the most perfect control of their mounts.

ART. V. For the direction of knights of the fiery charger. (Known only to them.)

ART. VI. Government of the clan shall be vested in the Grand Mysterious Conclave, composed of knights of the fiery charger.

Officers.

Most Artful Knight of the Fiery Charger—Sport Nazario.

Noble Exalted Master of Horse—Bing.

Chief Burnisher of Trappings—Sperow.

Voracious Trainer of Untamed Steeds—Wagh.

Slobacious Keeper of the Knightly Stables—Larew.

Trumptious Purveyor of Provender—Simmons.

Knights in Ordinary.

Noivtiate—All Preps.

Secret Signals—If the members appear wearing sweaters, action is expected.

To clear the throat and look unconcerned is a sign of danger, which means "we are watched."

To consult a watch frequently means there is "something doing."

For a member to display to another a certain number of fingers is a sign that his horse has failed him in the hour of need.

New Year's Resolutions.

Ben Koontz: Some cry for Castoria, but I'm going to save up and buy a pair of corduroys like Simmons has.

Bing: I'll stay in Aunt Mattie's class till I learn all about the Passion Play.

Lawrence: I'll get on the water-wagon and quit dancing.

Kid Walton: I'll not work so hard.

Ed. Richards: To put Nuzum Fort on the bum.

Dayton: I'll keep on resisting their charms though I expect to have a time during Leap Year.

Forquer: Not to go to Woman's Hall more than seven nights a week.

Ree Woodward: I'll not turn over any new leaves this year, because I've turned them all over.

Bum Smith: To try once more to be the University Rep. in the Oratorical League.

Junior Law: To elect more class officers than ever before.

Senior Law: Ditto.

Dean Wrightson: Not to confine myself to the School of Music any longer. I'll run the whole University.

Bing, Rader, et al: To know my man before I start anything.

Glee Club: We cut out the private cars; they come too high.

Camille Hayes: To increase my collection of frat pins.

Y. M. C. A.: To use Hand Sapolio on our souls.

For the Benefit of Preps.

How to get an edge with—

Dr. Reynolds: Keep awake. Say, yes, sir, at the proper times.

Dr. Brooke: Never be so presumptuous as to attempt to answer a question. Preserve a respectful silence while it is answered for you.

Prof. Willey: Stick to what you say, even if you know you are wrong.

Mr. Herod: Call him Professor.

Prof. Brown: Talk about the relation of soil to the industries of people and never miss the signal to laugh.

Prof. Stewart: Learn Trigonometric Formulae by their numbers. Commit demonstrations verbatim from text. Laugh judiciously.

Prof. Emory: Fatten up your note book. If necessary, with problems solved by your predecessors.

Prof. Hare: Commit page 2. Put periods after your sentences, so that they will not get away.

Prof. Patterson: Be an ardent admirer of George Riddle.

Dean Wrightson: Join the Choral Society, sell all your tickets and be sure to call him Dean.

Prof. Morris: Everyone cut class at the same time, so he can plan a new lot sale.

Dr. Callahan: Haunt the Library eight hours a day.

Prof. Hodges: Join the Presbyterian Bible class.

Miss Brocke: Ask questions intelligently and be a good listener.

Prof. Boughton: Mr. Haymond, what are some tools used in masonry construction?

Haymond: I didn't read that part of the lesson, Professor.

Prof: But that is all the lesson's about. Mr. Duval, how is it?

Duval: I'm afraid, Professor, I'm in the same boat.

Prof: Well, I will advise you to get out of that boat. It has a hole in it.

.. A pile driven in sand remains stationary under a pressure of forty-three tons, but a pressure of forty-five tons causes it to rise slowly. Explain.

The best minds of the Engineering class wrestled with this for several days, till finally a Prep suggested that they change "pressure" to "pull."

Seniors.

 WAYCHOFF—"Who brought you to town?"
 WOOD—"O, he needs a mother's care."

THE SCHLAGAMALLEUMINCIOBUND.*

An association for the promotion of the athletic interests of the University.

Principles.

We deplore the lack of college spirit, the poor work of our various teams, the incompetency of the managers, the small attendance at the games.

Motto.

"We know how it should be done."

Emblem.

Anvil couchant, sledge rampant.

Purpose.

It shall be our purpose to provide a highly efficient board of critics to furnish free and copious advice to the managers and members of the teams. We believe that the inspiring effect of strong and consistent criticism by the superior minds of "The Schlagamalleumincobund" can not be overestimated, and by this means we hope to be able to cure the above mentioned evils.

Membership.

It has been thought advisable not to publish a list of the members of the S. M. I. B. on account of the fact that a few thoughtless persons do not appreciate the beneficent work it is doing.

*Some uneducated persons may not see the meaning of this word. For their benefit we give its etymology. The compound is the result of the labors of several eminent lexicographers, working over time. It comes from the German Schlagen, to strike; the Latin malleus, a hammer; the Latin incus, an anvil, and the German bund, society; meaning therefore, "Strike the hammer on the anvil society." The title has reference to the earnest and untiring work which the society does.

A GOOD GRAFT

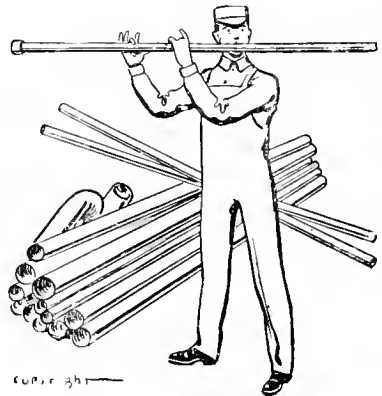

By the gardener or farmer makes a young slip grow on an old stock

The grafting or joining of pipes is the business of the

—our business in fact

New work is grafted on the old and made part of it where that is found best. Old work torn out and an improved system substituted where such is deemed expedient. Houses without plumbing are plumbed in a highly satisfactory manner. Any and all work in the plumbing line is well and promptly done by us.

PIPING AGAIN

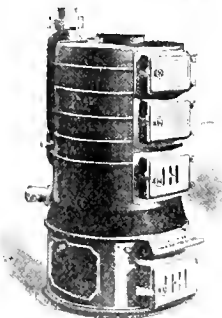

and in the same strain. Trying to awaken public interest in the subject of and blowing our own horn while doing it.

If there's a job to be done about your place, don't have it done by the cheapest plumber unless you know he's the best and he can't very well be that if his prices are much below the ordinary

We charge fair prices but do superior work and use the best material. Couldn't promise more than that if we talked all day.

Are you thinking of steam or hot water heating. If there is anything you want explained or the probable cost of a system put in your house, we would be only too glad of the opportunity of giving you the desired information.

THE SCRIVEN IMPROVED ELASTIC SEAM DRAWERS.

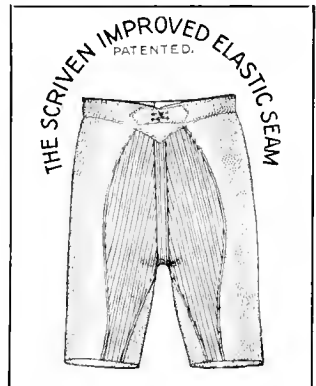

Here are the drawers that should be worn by men in all walks of life, for they are the only snug fitting drawers that give the wearer comfort.

No matter how you stand or sit they fit perfectly without strain, because they yield to every motion of the body without tension. The Acme of comfort and good wear.

It makes no difference whether you are slim, stout, tall or short, you can secure a perfect fit, for these drawers are made in all waist sizes, from 28 to 50 inches, with inseams from 28 to 35 inches.

JUST THE ACME OF STYLE AND COMFORT IS THE
OPINION OF ALL WHO WEAR THEM

Our Friends The Students

WHETHER you are in school or out, whether you are in Morgantown or some other city, you will not forget THE ACME. If you would remember to speak of this store to your friends who are coming to Morgantown to visit or to go to school, you would do us a great favor and a kindness to your friends. Old students who have been away from Morgantown for years are always at home when they get back to THE ACME. We are glad to see them. Two of our old student friends came in from Baltimore the other day and said that we had a Finer Store than they had seen anywhere in Baltimore.

It's the students who have helped make the Acme what it is. We are not likely to forget that. By the way we now have

A NICE STORE AT CLARKSBURG, W. VA.

It's another Acme. When you are there, give them a call.

A Card.

Recollections of youthful happenings often prove stepping-stones for transactions of vast import in the lives of men and women.

It is our desire to be favorably remembered by the University graduates. As you go forth into the life that awaits you—or, that you make for yourselves—remember us, in your business life, as printers, bookbinders, lithographers and blankbook manufacturers to West Virginians in particular, and the balance of the states incidentally.

Of many of the class, of '04 with whom we have had business relations, we shall cherish very pleasant memories.

To all of the class, who are to be more or less prominent in West Virginia history-making, we shall hope for pleasant and mutually profitable business and social connections.

What in the world to give a friend?

Yale men know and the New Haven Union says: "The question of what in the world to give a friend is solved by SONGS OF ALL THE COLLEGES which is alike suitable for the collegian of the past, for the student of the present, and for the boy (or girl) with hopes; also for the music-loving sister and a fellow's best girl."
